Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

> The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claim 23 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor, at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Specifically, claim 23 recites the limitation, "...an effective amount of a nutritional supplement..." However, no effective amount is provided in the disclosure. Additionally, it is not clear from the disclosure what a given amount of nutritional supplement is to be effective toward.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 23-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Skinner (U.S. Patent No. 6,210,710).

Skinner teaches a timed (sustained) release nutritional supplement (see col. 2, lines 8-22). The disclosed composition is comprised of:

- the water-soluble nutritional supplement (ascorbic acid) of instant claims 23-25 (see col. 3, line 58);
- the saccharide (lactose) of instant claims 23-25 (see col. 4, line 49);
- the excipient (calcium phosphate) of instant claims 23-25 (see col. 4, lines 48-49);
- the lubricant (magnesium stearate) of instant claims 23-25 (see col. 4, line 59);
- the agglutinative (hydroxyethylcellulose) of instant claims 23-25 (see col. 2, line 66); and
- the plasticizer (stearic acid) of instant claims 23-25 (see col. 4, line 58);

Skinner explains that the disclosed composition is beneficial because it provides flexibility in release profiles that are stable and economical for compressed tablets (see col. 1, lines 48-56).

While Skinner does not explicitly teach all the instant claimed percentages, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to determine suitable percentages through routine or manipulative experimentation to obtain the best possible results, as these are variable parameters attainable within the art.

Moreover, generally, differences in concentration will not support the patentability of subject matter encompassed by the prior art unless there is evidence indicating such concentration is critical. "[W]here the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation." In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456; 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955). Applicants have not demonstrated any unexpected or unusual results, which accrue from the instant percentage ranges.

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to disclose water-soluble nutritional supplement in a timed release formulation comprising a saccharide, an excipient, a lubricant, an agglutinative, and a plasticizer, as taught by Skinner. One of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made would have been motivated to make such a composition because it provides flexibility in release profiles that are stable and economical for compressed tablets, as explained by Skinner.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 23-25 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-59 of copending Application No. 10/910,787 ('787). Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because '787 claims a timed release composition comprising a saccharide, an excipient, a lubricant, an agglutinative, and a plasticizer. See claim 1.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.
